ANNUAL SUMMARY

The Annual Summary of captures and occurrence of Lepidoptera in North America has been very useful to many of our members for years and we hope a large number of you will send in reports for the 1967 Summary. Following are suggestions for making these reports:

Weather: Report only if it has markedly affected abundance. Effects of other forces (fire, grazing, construction, etc.) are usually very local and it is doubtful if reports on them are very useful to others. Therefore, please omit them unless of widespread effect.

Report any species not previously known in county or larger area. Report unusual abundance or scarcity. Report any noticeable migration, with dates, duration, direction of flight, estimate of numbers.

Report species in detail ONLY if the area has not previously been collected or reported on, and if this might show extension of range. DO NOT send in lists of common species from well-known areas.

Report any NEW information on foodplants of larvae.

Reports should be written up in an orderly and accurate fashion, using, if possible, for butterflies, the names shown in the dos Passos Check list. With our increasing membership (735 in North America now as compared with 605 two years ago) it is imperative that members make their reports more in line with the above suggestions. Too many are merely sending their Zone Coordinators complete lists of everything they took during the season, leaving it to him to sort out the worthwhile items. This may make it impossible to publish the Annual Summary before June, and I know most of you want it earlier. You did the collecting, you were there, you should know, better than your Coordinator and certainly better than I, what was unusual, rare, of special interest. Suggest you refer to the 1966 reports (NEWS, 15 April 1967) for indications on how to write up reports. Your reports should be in the hands of your ZONE Coordinator by 15 February. This will allow him to get his summary to me in time for publication in the 15 April NEWS -- E. J. Newcomer, Editor.

The Zones and Coordinators are as follows:

- Zone I: California, Arizona, Nevada; Fred Thorne, 1360 Merritt Drive, El Cajon, California 92021.
- Zone II: British Columbia, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana; E. J. Newcomer, 1509 Summitview, Yakima, Washington 98902.
