August 26, 1896.

Dear Professor Marsh:

Yesterday I sent you eleven galley proofs (36-46) of the Denver Basin paper, and by this mail I send eleven (47-57) more. In each case, I have sent the corresponding manuscript. There are still seventeen galley proofs to read. In-
There are no explanations to files. I hope to finish reading them tomorrow. As you will see by my marginal notes, I have compared these galley with the North American Dinosaur text, and have noted any changes in pencil, marked "N.A.D."

Mr. Gill says that there is nothing to report from the bone, and matters are all right here at the museum. I enclose one letter from Newport. There is no mail of importance, except the xel of duplicate proofs which Mr. Gill has just brought in.

Yours respectfully,
Lucy T. Bush
