Yale University
New Haven, May 29, 1896.

Professor Otisville C. Marsh
My dear Professor Marsh,

Your letter addressed to the Corporation of the University was presented to them by me at their meeting here yesterday. By a manounced vote they acceded to your request with reference to the matter of salary—passing a resolution that you should receive, after the current academic year, a salary of thirty-five hundred dollars. They also adopted, with the same accuracy, the accompanying minute, which will be placed upon their records, and which, as copied and signed by the Secretary, I take great pleasure in sending to you.

Let me, as I thus communicate to you, the action and sentiments of the Corporation, express to you my own appreciation of the generous and valuable service which, during these many years, you have rendered to the University, and to the Community, and present to you the assurance of my personal esteem and regard.

Very truly yours,

Timothy Dwight

My dear Professor March

I have a request from Rev. Mr. Tyler, Secretary of the New Inst. of Technology, that three delegates should attend the funeral service of Pres. Walker at Friends Church, Boston at noon Friday next. I earnestly hope you will be one of the delegates, as it is most eminently fitting that you should be. Please do the favor.

This kindly service,

Yours very truly,

Timothy Dwight
Prof. Abraham C. March, M.D.

My dear Professor Marsh,

The gentlemen who go from Yale to the funeral service for Pres. Walker are invited to present themselves at the Rogers Building of the Institute of Technology at half past eleven o'clock Friday morning.

Very truly yours,

Timothy Dwight

January 6, 1897.

The service at the Church is at twelve o'clock noon.
My dear Professor Marsh

The action of the Corporation was unanimous in accepting your very generous gift on the conditions mentioned by you in the document accompanying the letter which you handed to me this morning. I in close to you, at the request of the Corporation, a copy of the resolution which was adopted as expressing their grateful recognition of what you have now so generously done for the University and of the highly valuable service which you have, with faithful devotion, rendered to it ever since you began your work within its walls.

Let me add the expression of my own personal thanks to you for your great benefaction and the assurance of my most friendly regard and esteem.

Very sincerely yours,

Timothy Dwight

The President and Fellows, having received a deed of gift from Professor Othniel C. Marsh, presenting to the University his very valuable collections now in the Peabody Museum, which represent the labor of many years on his part and also the expenditure of a large amount from his personal fortune, desire, as they accept the gift, to communicate to him, and to place upon record, an expression of their grateful acknowledgment of his generosity.

In this grateful acknowledgment they are confident that all the graduates and friends of Yale will unite, when they learn of this most recent manifestation of his long-continued interest in the University, even as they already fully appreciate the unselfish devotion of his time, his talents, and his energies, for more than thirty years, to the scientific researches which have given him such personal distinction and have brought such renown to the institution.
